

New Exciting Career Pathway

Use your tertiary qualification to develop a wide range of skills and be paid at competitive rates while being trained!

- Travel across New Zealand (free Koru membership)
- Make a difference that counts for the Health and Wealth of NZ
- Develop a great career growth path

So, you need a change but have no idea what you want to do next? This could be a career role with great professional development and just what you're looking for...

About the Role

You will be trained to lead independent assessments of organisations, primarily within the physical and materials science sectors including civil and mechanical engineering, manufacturing industries or similar but with the scope and flexibility to cover other areas such as textile and chemical testing. This will involve arranging site visits, flying country-wide to complete these assessments and writing up your findings in reports. You will learn the intricacies of the systems and processes that enable these organisations to function at a high level and you will become an expert in the field of Quality Management. Full and sustained training for the role will be given.

About IANZ

IANZ conducts assessments of many organisations across New Zealand. Organisations that have met the IANZ accreditation requirements are able to display the IANZ symbol to their customers which gives assurance that they adhere to the highest of standards. This includes confirmation of compliance with regulations, technical and quality standards.

The clients of IANZ cover many sectors. IANZ enjoys wide national and international recognition for the quality, independence and integrity of its services.

About You

Who are we after? People who have:

- A tertiary qualification (preferably in the physical/materials/chemical areas)
- An inquisitive nature
- An analytical bent
- Strong written and verbal skills
- Confidence in computer skills and literacy
- The willingness to work effectively in a team
- A flexible and adaptable disposition
- Willingness to travel
- Ability to work autonomously

What's In It for You?

- Salary at competitive rates for those with expertise and experience within the sector
- Travel across NZ
- Koru club membership

-
- Skill development of specialist expertise in Quality Management
 - New offices from December 2022 with free parking and onsite cafes.
 - Autonomy when training is completed
 - Flexible working arrangements

This role fits those with experience within their speciality sector, who are looking to forge a pathway in a new and exciting career. So if you're keen to get your career kick-started, or breathe new life into your existing career, then you could be the right fit! Either call David on 09-917 0130 or click the following link to apply: <https://adr.to/6g7n2>