

The Brereton Barrier

The Brereton Barrier® is an affordable and easy-to-use product that allows you to wean off prescribed fentanyl patches in an average time of 6 to 8 months. This process is fully adjustable and personally created for you.

When applied, the Brereton Barrier is an easy, safe, effective, and patient-driven product and process that allows the patient to wean themselves down or completely off of prescribed fentanyl.

If you apply the Brereton Barrier as instructed, you can limit your intake of prescribed fentanyl by either 10%, 15%, or 20% roughly for a traditional fentanyl patch application (72 hours).

Empowering you.

We don't treat symptoms. We empower your solutions.

With NBMT on your side, you decide when it's time to break free from your prescribed fentanyl patch. The Brereton Barrier™ offers complete control over fentanyl consumption according to your goals. Without the use of medication or therapy, we can ensure our product is one of the safest methods of tapering off of any prescribed fentanyl patch.

As a company, we live by the standard that every human being is a unique individual with their own needs and challenges as they struggle with addiction. We are here to act as your ally as you make your own way towards an addiction-free life.

Instructions for Use

Delivery

After the Brereton Barrier is shipped to your doorstep, open the packaging and remove your Barrier and its disposal envelope. Be sure to place the envelope in an easily remembered place for later disposal.

Application

Open your new or replacement pre-prescribed fentanyl patch according to the manufacturer's instructions, and select the size of the Brereton Barrier you need. First, remove the protective film from the patch. Then, apply the Barrier anywhere on the transdermal side before placing the patch (with the Barrier applied) on your chest normally.

Disposal

After three days of use, place the patch (with the barrier still applied) in the Disposal Envelope. Then mail the envelope as instructed on the packaging.

Visit our website for more information.

Or call us at (434) 509 - 2999

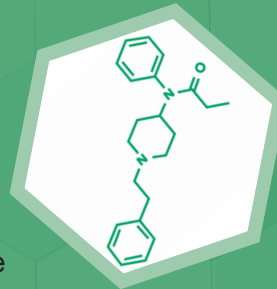

Our Mission

To provide clients with the tools they need to reduce or end their prescribed fentanyl patch addiction on their own terms.

Our Goal

To make the Brereton Barrier the leading product in managing and curing prescribed fentanyl patch addiction while working as allies with clients to provide a risk-free cure for fentanyl addiction.

Our Vision

To establish a paradigm shift in society's approach to ending the opioid epidemic by returning decision-making power to those looking to free themselves from fentanyl addiction.

Our History

After battling cancer and struggling with prescribed fentanyl addiction, CEO and founder Neil Brereton Jackson began his search for a client-controlled product capable of creating a paradigm shift in the opioid epidemic plaguing the country. After inventing the Brereton Barrier™ and founding N Brereton Medical Technologies it became his mission to provide an easy to use, self-tapering product that put our clients in complete control of their tapering process. Jackson was able to empower himself to accomplish a mission to end his dependency, and provide you with the courage to challenge your prescribed fentanyl patch medication.

Since 1999 our country has suffered the loss of over 400,000 individuals due to overdose, while seeing a rapid increase in prescribed use of opioids. But while others stress prevention, debate types of treatment, and struggle to target helpful support methods, we know it's time to address cures that work.

Neil Brereton Jackson

“When I designed the Brereton Barrier™ to end addiction to the fentanyl patch, my story became one of self-empowerment in overcoming prescribed opioid addiction, and I believe it can be yours too.”

Start your journey.

Through significant capital investment, research and development is underway bringing a pipeline of a safe product family that address illicit opioids, removes “needles in the street,” and address the cruel impact of neonatal abstinence syndrome.

N Brereton Medical stands far in front of today's limited and costly answers. Signup today to receive the exciting news of the Brereton Barrier's launch and follow the development and deployment of all our safe, affordable and easy to use solutions to the opioid addiction epidemic.