

We partner with organizations to solve their complex, important data challenges. We listen carefully, we start with your business goals, and then work with you to build a solution that will help you achieve them.

Our approach

Technology is a means to solve your business problem. We prefer open interfaces, industry standards and avoid lock-in. We believe that good solutions are robust, scalable, extensible and maintainable.

Zero arrogance, 100% commitment

When you work with us, our only agenda is to solve your problem - together. We build solutions that are integrated with your organization and processes and provide real value from day one.

Customer stories

The solution we developed manages the optimized distribution of cars to dealerships and intelligently adjusts pricing of stock to demand across multiple geographies.

We created a holistic view on developments in the real estate market, combining internal and external data, enabling more than 900 CBRE employees and their customers to access unique analytical insights on markets, properties and real estate actors.

Our models continuously optimize the distribution of thousands of freight wagons throughout Europe using real-time GPS and booking data, increasing asset utilization significantly.
