displaced, in particular abroad, and their integration into the socio-economic life” working group

Introduction

1. Russia's military aggression against Ukraine has caused many negative actors that impacted all spheres of life in Ukraine, among them:
  - Increase in the number of citizens in need for state social assistance
  - Decrease in the economic activities of small and medium-sized businesses – prime employers in Ukraine, along with simultaneous increase in number of the citizens living below the poverty line
  - Deterioration of the country's demographic situation
  - Threat of loss of country's intellectual potential caused by a massive outflow from Ukraine of qualified specialists in all spheres of public life and economy
  - Destruction / damage of housing, civil, social, administrative and other infrastructure promises
  - Urgent need for temporary dwelling and employment for IDPs in host communities
2. Russia's military aggression since 2014 has forced a significant number of citizens to displace to the territories controlled by Ukraine from the Autonomous Republic of Crimea, and Donbass. In 2014, the Law of Ukraine "On Ensuring the Rights and Freedoms of Internally Displaced Persons", the Law of Ukraine "On Ensuring the Rights and Freedoms of Citizens and the Legal Regime in the Temporarily Occupied Territory of Ukraine" were adopted, which need revision after the 2022 invasion.
3. The International Organization for Migration estimates that as of May 23, 2022, the number of internally displaced people in Ukraine was 7,134,000. As of June 3, 2022, the Ministry of Social Policy confirms that 4,172,104 people are registered as IDPs. Whereas, before 24.02.2022, the Unified Information Database of IDPs registered 1,470,072 IDPs, of which approximately 745,000 IDPs permanently reside in the territories controlled by the Government of Ukraine, and the rest - in the territories not controlled by the Government.
4. According to UNHCR's estimates as of June 13, 2022, since February 24, 2022, 7,514,460 citizens have left Ukraine and 2,479,398 returned, and 3,206,642 Ukrainians have received temporary protection in the EU. In the EU, temporary protection status is mostly sought by women with children, who can be joined by their husbands after the war.
5. Ukraine is facing the threat of losing the intellectual potential for its development. Young people go to Western universities, which creates favorable conditions for their further employment in the EU. But their experience of studying and working in the EU will contribute to the positive transformation of the socio-economic life in communities upon return.

6. In 2021, the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine approved the Strategy for Integration of IDPs and implementation of the medium-term Decisions on internal displacement until 2024, which is the basis for the development of Ukraine's Integration Policy during the war and postwar period.
7. The first step towards its implementation will be a analysis of the support programs in place for IDPs, their families and children, which need revision and adaptation to the new challenges. It's necessary to develop unified criteria for assessing the individual needs of integration policy for targeted approaches (set of social, administrative, public services, etc.).
8. Despite the war, the status of internal displacement shall not be timeless, due to human's natural need to integrate into the host community and, according to preliminary estimates, this process should take no longer than six months. Based on the understanding of comprehensive state assistance to IDPs during the adaptation period, it is necessary to adhere to the principle of social justice and equal opportunities.
9. Achieving the political goal to return the citizens requires compliance of all state policies with human-centered approach, respect for human rights, which is ensured through the implementation of the integration policy. The means to achieve the goals is the government's will and determination to create comfortable and attractive conditions for living, working, doing business in perceived safe communities, individual administrative-territorial units of Ukraine.
10. It is the state that creates the conditions, and the citizens choose the time for returning to home communities from which they were forced to leave at the beginning of the war. This should be a voluntary movement supported by the state's interest. The state can only entice people to return voluntary, but not by coercion.
11. Making concrete and quick decisions should be based on the interests of citizens as end users, which are accumulated in the specific policy on housing reconstruction, restoration and development of social, educational, cultural, health, sports infrastructure and offers of barrier-free access to consumption in these areas, social services, insurance and recourse payments, entrepreneurial specialization in communities, forecasting the demand for labour and appropriate qualifications of employees, investment attractiveness of communities, job offers, etc.
12. The integration policy should be developed under conditions when Ukrainians' access to the freedoms, on which the EU internal market is built, becomes wider: freedom of people's movement, freedom of movement of workers, goods and capital. It must be taken into account when developing the integration policy, as Ukraine will compete with European countries for our qualified specialists, who have a choice of proposals and expand opportunities for self-realization in the EU.

13. The EU sees integration as a "multidimensional process", which means interaction at all levels of governmental institutions through a cross-sectoral approach. The means used in the development and implementation of the regional, socio-economic, migration policies of the state are tools to achieve the goals of the Integration Policy to return the citizens into the socio-economic life of the state, which is reflected in the Recovery Plan.
14. An integral part of the Integration Policy, development and implementation of which will be coordinated by the Ministry of Reintegration through a new position - the Commissioners for Integration, is management of the internal migration caused by socio-economic factors, while the security component of internal migration is a priority for Security and Defence Office.
15. Internal migration / movement of the citizens within the country is an outcome of citizens' perception of the state reform on the development of the regions. Based on the above, development of the integration policy will be carried out simultaneously with the development of a new- brand migration policy, assuming a growth in internal and external migration among the citizens of Ukraine, especially in the medium term.
16. The strategic goals set to ensure the integration of the IDPs before the war, are still relevant during the war time and will be in the post-war period. These are: the realization of housing and property rights of IDPs, their employment and education of internally, realization of the right to social protection, medical care, access to files and other documents.
