Acknowledgements

Thanks to the 94 organisations who submitted data to The RACE Report for their contribution towards increasing transparency that will drive environmental charities and funders towards a more diverse and inclusive sector.

Thanks also to our advisory group for their constructive critique and guidance throughout the delivery of the initiative.

About The RACE Report

What is The RACE Report?

The environment, climate, sustainability and conservation sector is one of the least diverse in the country. The RACE Report (Racial Action for the Climate Emergency) launched in April 2022 with the goal of increasing transparency amongst charities working on these issues and creating an impetus to go further and faster on diversity and inclusion.

Between April and September 2022, charities, trusts and foundations that predominantly work on environmental, climate, nature or sustainability issues could first register their support for the initiative, and then submit data on the diversity characteristics of their staff and trustees, contributing to building a picture of diversity.

A total of 175 charities, trusts and foundations signed up, demonstrating their support for the initiative and 94 submitted data at some level through the data submission process which included three categories of data, outlined below. 91 organisations submitted race and ethnicity data, at some level. In two instances, organisations operating as federations of charities made single submissions for some or all of the charities under their 'umbrella'. Due to the nature of their data collection we are not able to provide a definitive number of organisations represented by the data. A full list of the data points included in the data collection can be found on the RACE Report website. This report presents the findings from the 94 organisations that submitted data, with the number of organisations represented noted for each data category.

SECTION A (mandatory)	SECTION B (mandatory)	SECTION C (optional)
Administration and organisation characteristics	Race and ethnicity data for staff and governance bodies (where applicable)	Information on policy, strategy and action on diversity and inclusion

In the first year, the data published in this report and online is anonymous, with no organisation named. The goal is to repeat the data collection each year from 2022 onwards, publishing an annual RACE Report for the sector, and also individual transparency cards for organisations where publishing the data would not leave individual members of staff identifiable.

It is important to note that the data presented here has been collected and submitted voluntarily by individual organisations. Data is likely to have been collected using different methods and at different points in time, for example, organisations whose equality, diversity and inclusion practices already involved annual staff surveys were not asked to repeat the survey if they had already collected data for 2022. Similarly, in each category there is a proportion of individuals who have not disclosed their race/ethnicity, either out of choice or through absence when data collection occurred. The 94 organisations who submitted data at any level were asked to assess the accuracy and currency of the data they were submitting. The chart below outlines their assessment of the data they submitted to The RACE Report. As such the data presented here should not be seen as a perfect representation of the sector, however it is a first step in measuring and tracking diversity through comparable and collective data. Our project plan outlines the steps taken to devise the data collection process in the first year, and The RACE Report will continue to work to improve the reporting process to achieve greater accuracy and consistency, in collaboration with participating organisations.

Organisations submitting data did so in the format of number of staff according to headcount. These have been totalled across all organisations submitting data, for each racial ethnicity and for the total staff within that category. This total has then been used to calculate a percentage for each category. Within the report, racial and ethnic identities have been grouped as follows for analysis purposes. This does not imply any one group is more or less important than another or that the experiences of these groups are uniform. Grouping has been carried out for practical purposes only, where populations are too small to support meaningful analysis and where grouping allows for a better understanding of trends and relationships.

Action on diversity, equity and inclusion

Within the RACE Report, organisations were also asked to report on their action on diversity, equality and inclusion in five areas. This table outlines the most and least commonly reported actions in each area.

Area of action	Most and least commonly reported action	% stating partially/fully implemented	% stating fully implemented	% combined
Transparency	A published statement that shows the organisation is committed to tackling racism	36%	30%	66%
	Race equity pay gap published in last 18 months	1%	4%	5%
Strategy and targets	Race equity / diversity and inclusion strategy, or similar	61%	21%	82%
	Improvement in racial diversity in the performance targets for managers / directors	6%	5%	11%
Management and governance	Regular review of equality, diversity and inclusion activities to ensure they remain effective and impactful	51%	28%	79%
	The risk register for the organisation includes a lack of action to tackle racial injustice / increase racial diversity	19%	17%	36%
HR processes	Statements promoting race equity and inclusion within all new recruitment materials	30%	52%	82%
	Accredited for Investors in Diversity, or similar	2%	3%	5%
Practical and positive action	Recent review of imagery and language used in marketing and websites / process in place to ensure it is representative of racial diversity and inclusive	41%	35%	76%
	Inclusion of racism towards staff of colour in risk assessments	6%	7%	13%

UK environment and sustainability charities and funders are still behind the UK on diversity

Taking national data from the Annual Population Survey gathered for 2021-22 by the Office of National Statistics, we can see that data submitted by environmental charities and funders through the 2022 RACE Report highlights the gap in diversity within this sector. Whilst, 14% of the UK's working population that are currently in employment identify as Black, Asian or other Minority Ethnic* identities compared to the 7% of employees identifying as people of colour or other racially or ethnically minoritised identities within The RACE Report.

Whilst the data submitted by participating organisations shows that some good practices are becoming commonplace (see page 7), it is clear that more substantial and widespread action is needed to ensure organisations' diversity is reflective of the broader picture across the UK's population.

* Non-white identities [n.b terminology replicated from ONS data export]

** POC and racially/ethnically minoritised groups. Please see page 4 for further detail.
