

elixel

Mid-level Developer

Full-time

Start date: August 2022

About us

Elixel is an award winning agency based in the UK that works with entrepreneurs and corporate businesses to become digital pioneers, by launching digital products and services that make a positive difference to their customers.

Founded a digital community and movement that put the city on the international map of digital clusters.

Designed and built a coffee-on-the-go system for the indie coffee shops of Plymouth.

J.P.Morgan

arvato
BERTELSMANN

 crowdcube
Inspiring Investment

Sooty

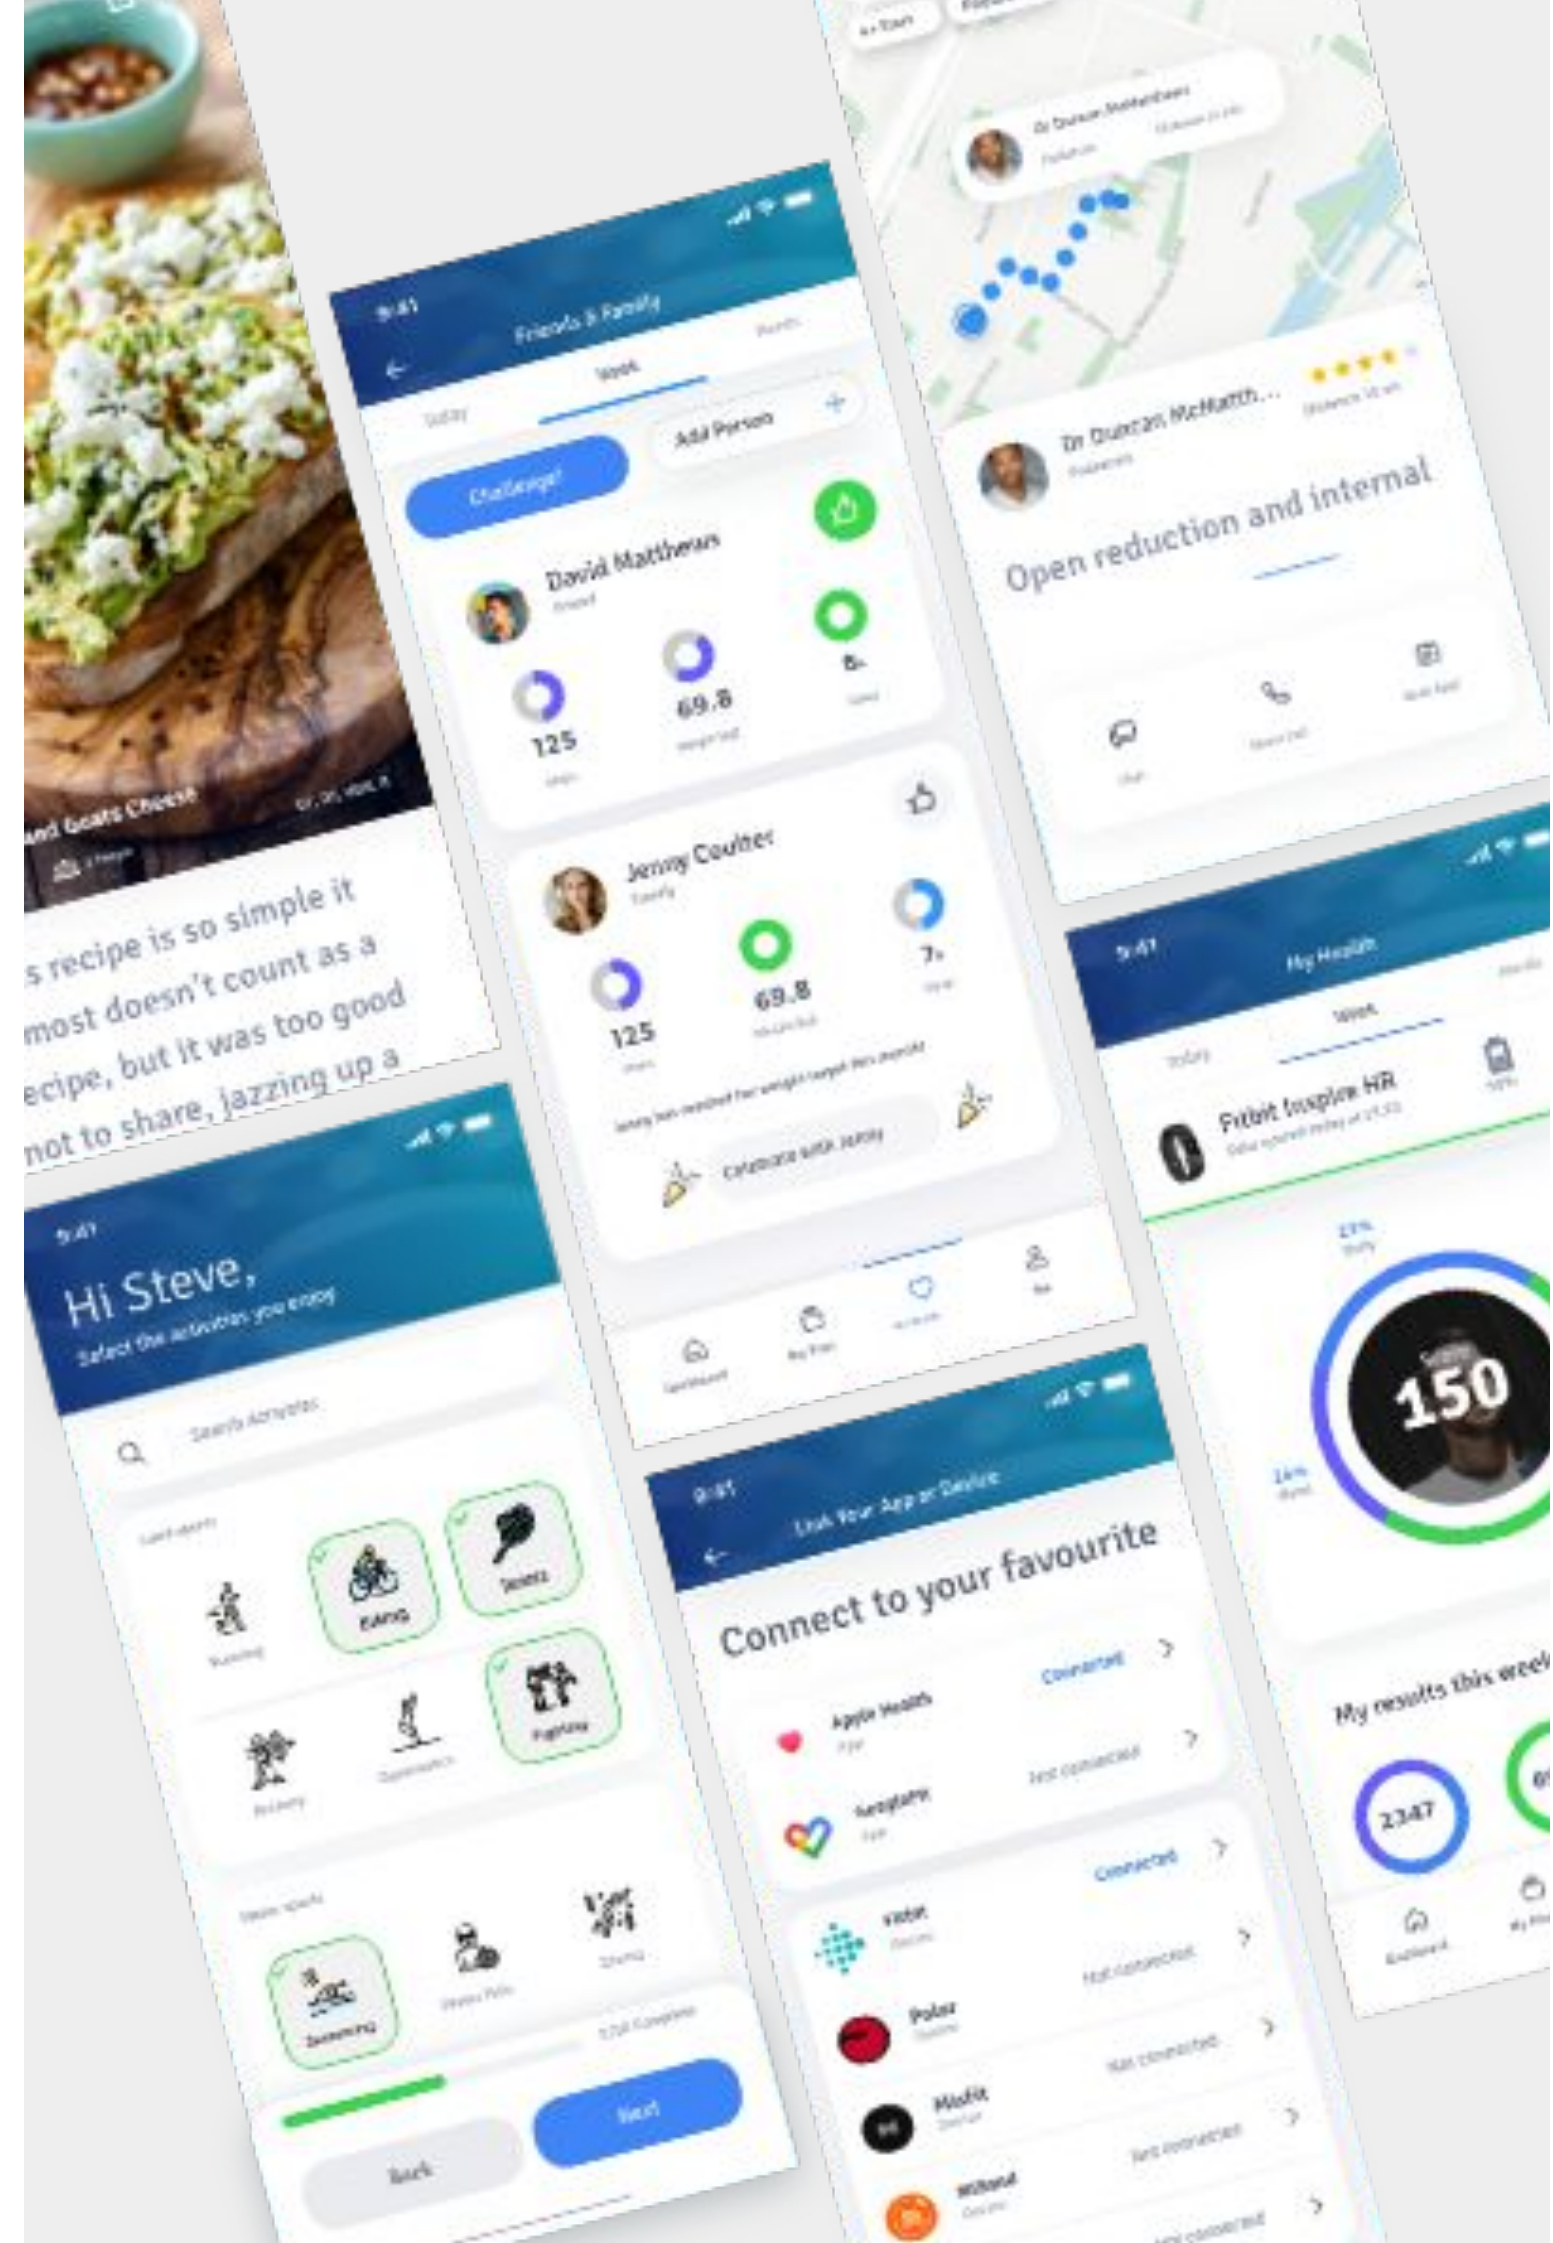

WPA

GAME

Your role

Elixel is looking for a mid level developer to join our development team. You will have the opportunity to tackle a variety of unique challenges whilst collaborating with the rest of the design and development team, to produce impactful real world solutions for our clients and their customers. We want you to use your technical wizardry to deliver products to the hands of users, bringing our clients ideas to life.

Your day-to-day will include developing app functionality, planning data management, implementing designs, integrating services, testing, and contributing to project planning and timelines.

You are...

- Able to take the idea of an end result and construct the technical process around it to make it happen
- Able to take a visual design and precisely implement it in code
- Able to give and receive feedback from other team members
- Able to work in an iterative fashion, collaborating closely with team members and clients to find the best solution
- Comfortable with taking ownership over a project and being responsible for its completion
- Able to clearly articulate challenges and ask for help when needed
- Self-reliant, you can investigate and learn new knowledge to find solutions to your challenges
- Experienced in using front end and back end technologies in harmony to build complex functionality
- Keen to take an active role in the progression of the development team and take ownership of ideas for improvement
- Excited with the prospect of working on awesome projects with a range of technologies
- Someone who is keen to interact with the digital community and progress through learning

Essentials

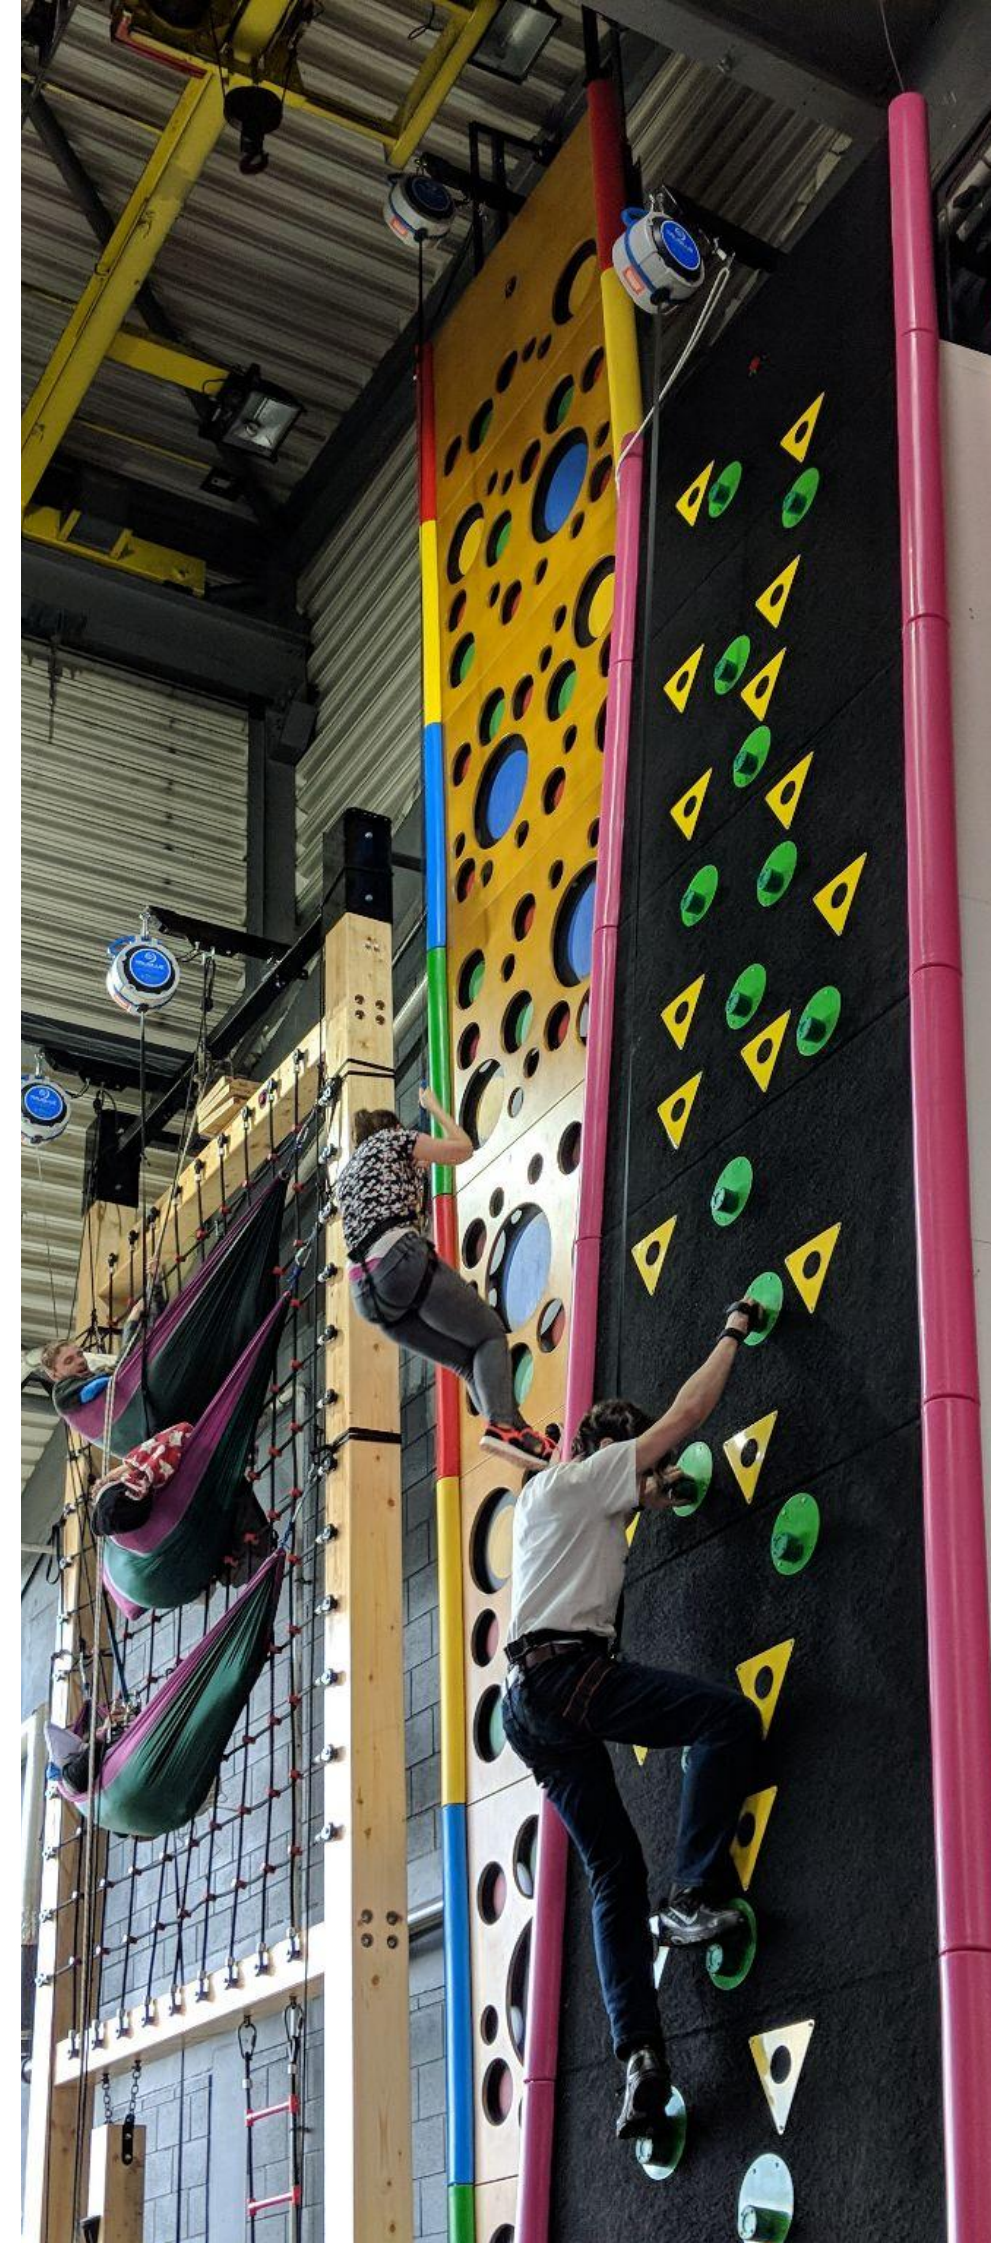

- At least 3 years of development experience (web and mobile) using technologies for full stack development including Angular, Typescript, and Firebase
- Experience with other hybrid app and web technologies such as Ionic, Capacitor, React and Vue would be beneficial
- Experience in using and implementing CI/CD and testing processes using tools such as Jenkins and Fastlane would be a plus
- Experience in development methodologies including Git, NPM and agile workflows
- Meticulous attention to detail, ensuring what you deliver exactly meets the requirements
- Understanding of how to plan and deliver projects from idea to distribution
- Good time management skills, ability to plan and organise your own workloads to meet deadlines

Culture

Although some of our team members work remote we are a close knit group that thrives on our drive to do extraordinary things. Our wish is that everyone who joins Elixel is given the environment to flourish and the freedom to be their best selves.

- Flexible working hours (core hours normally 10:30am - 4pm)
- Work remotely or in the office
- Have a yearly £720 personal development budget to encourage growth
- Company and team off site events and socials (even remotely)
- A comfortable relaxed office environment - office dogs welcome!
- Take your birthday off 🎉

Diversity & inclusion

We believe that everyone is welcome, respected and valued just as they are, regardless of gender, identity, ethnicity, race, age, religion, disability status, neurodiversity, or any other qualities that make us unique.

Please follow the link below to apply to this opportunity.

We're excited to get to know you!

elixel.co.uk/careers