

UPPING YOUR ELVIS

Find Your Elvis. We've each got the most amazing potential. We all have everything we need right now to make an extraordinary and positive impact on this planet. But to fully realise this, we need to tap into what makes us really tick.

Find Your Elvis is a workshop that helps people to do just that. It is designed to help people get clear on who they are, and what gives them meaning in the work they do and the lives they lead.

The result is super-tight teams that better understand themselves and each other.

These teams are laser focused, applying their unique talents and supercharging the impact they create every day.

A deceptively simple three-stage programme built on decades of experience working with leaders in business and the creative industries:

Find your Elvis. Get clear on your motivations, the things you do skilfully, that you want to do more of.

Tell your story. Expertly communicate this version of yourself to others by telling your story to your team, colleagues and stakeholders.

Get fresh energy. Let your inner Elvis unleash your energetic superpowers on the world of your work and life.

This is a programme for leaders who want to unleash greater energy in their work and create a positive impact for themselves and the people they lead.

It's for teams who are eager to unlock their full potential by understanding themselves and each other.
