ARCHDIOCESE OF DENVER

OFFICE OF THE ARCHBISHOP

30 March 2021

My Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

The Holy Spirit is at work in Colorado. In my ministry as the principal shepherd of Northern Colorado, I see many signs and hear a variety of stories of how God is working in and through his disciples to build up his kingdom here on earth. One ministry that continually produces these fruits is the Intercessors of the Trinity.

Inspired by the visit of Pope St. John Paul II to Denver in 1993, Deacon Brian Kerby and his wife Dee founded the Intercessors of the Trinity. The Kerbys and their team use Scripture to lead people into healing prayer for a deeper and more intimate relationship with the Trinity. With the support of their spiritual director, Monsignor Ken Leone, they have lived the parable of the lost sheep and the prodigal son, resulting in testimonies of people who have returned to the Church, some of whom report spiritual, emotional and physical healings.

The Intercessors of the Trinity are one of our "best kept secrets" … working out of a venue in Evergreen known locally as "the Barn" for many years, this ministry has relocated to the metro area and gained a significant following. During the past 12 months it has launched live stream broadcasts, reaching thousands of people each week.

Recently, Intercessors of the Trinity launched plans to build the Padre Pio Center of the New Evangelization, a nearly $2 million project. It has quietly raised close to $800,000 of the funds required, including acquiring and paying $400,000 for land in Littleton where the Center will be located.

Intercessors of the Trinity does not receive any direct financial support from the Archdiocese of Denver. It is an all-volunteer, non-profit organization in compliance with Canon and Civil law. I am supportive of its wonderful work and encourage you to consider participating through your prayer and potential assistance for its financial needs.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

+ Samuel J. Aquila
