

BRIDGING BRAIN RESEARCH & Social Justice FOR Oracy Development

Takeaway research-based ideas on oracy instruction to empower students to expand their language repertoire.

This session emphasizes how students are active meaning makers in the dual language classroom.

Click on the recommended articles below for further learning:

The Neuroscience
Behind Stress and Learning

Understanding How
the Brain Thinks

Oracy: A Means to Academic Success
for All

Four principles of Social Justice

Brain Based Learning &
Whole Brain
Teaching

Video: The Affective Filter
Hypothesis

@clasedecalvillo
@neliz5

BILINGUAL
TEACHER
VIRTUAL
CONFERENCE

BRIDGING BRAIN RESEARCH & Social Justice FOR Oracy Development

Takeaway research-based ideas on oracy instruction to empower students to expand their language repertoire.

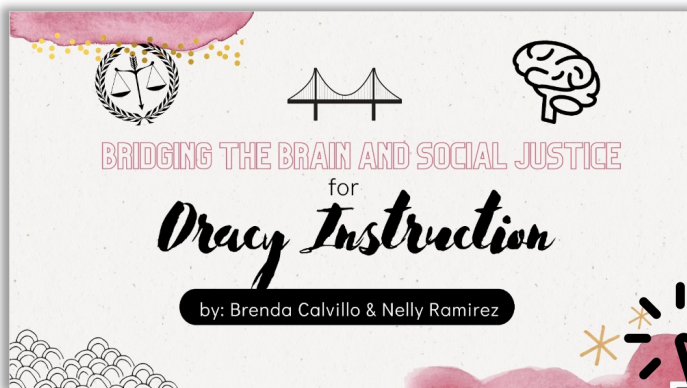

This session emphasizes how students are active meaning makers in the dual language classroom.

Click on the recommended articles below for further learning:

Oral Language
Development for Beginners

Oral Language
Development & ELLs: 5
Challenges & Solutions

Using Pair and Group
Work to Develop ELLs'
Oral Language Skills

Click to view slides

Questions? Comments.

clasedecalvillo@gmail.com

Nellyramirez@u-46.org

@clasedecalvillo
@neliz5

BILINGUAL
TEACHER
VIRTUAL
CONFERENCE