The new knowledge book is the encyclopedia published by Grolier USA. [1] The new book of knowledge about the American language of the American language from 1966. Before that there was a book of knowledge cyclopedia was the successor to the knowledge book, which was published from 1912 to 1965. This was described as a "brand new job" under the publisher's editor. Martha G. Shapa, Encyclopedia General Management Manager for Grolier and Specific Management Dr. Lowell A. pelereme Martin. From the beginning, the new book by Knowelde was greeted by criticism and it was praised as one of the best encyclopedia in terms of target demography, although it is most expensive. [3] Some of the clear properties of the kit contained "the glossary index", which contained both the text of the side link and a brief definition of words that are not included in the text. In 1985 there were around 5,000 of these files in the register and 80,000 regular files. At the end of each volume, an indicator was displayed and compiled in the volume. 21, no definitions. [4] The encyclopedia also used definition boxes to explain the technical terms that had ventured in the article. [4] The other characteristics included literary fragments such as certain parts of the Arab Nights and the behavior of Paul Revere as well as practical instructions such as "How to create ants" and "produce their own meteorological observatory". [5] However, there was a criticism that there was little or no information about sex in connection with sex. The article on menstruation was only added until 1984. The other regions that were obviously neglected in the 1980s were masturbation and homosexuality. [6] The Encyclopedia Edition from 1985 had 21 volumes, 10,540 pages, 9,116 articles (without definitions in index), 22,500 illustrationswere also described in more detail. Things such as AIDS, contraception and abortion were appreciated realistically and in depth. [8] A new paper prop, house guide and school studios were introduced. In this booklet dedicated to parents, librarians and teachers, 1000 bibliography subjects with the keys to the collection have been classified. [9] 1993 The license had volume 21, 10,600 pages and 6.8 million words. There were 9,000 articles, not counting 5,000 dictionary arrows [10]. There were 4,000 cross-references and 85,000 registry items. [9] The set contained 25,000 illustrations, 90% of which were colored. [11] Nearly all articles were signed and 1,700 colleagues were featured upon Tom's completion. 20. [12] As in previous editions, the set used the "pyramid structure" in its articles, which was initially simple and gradually became more complex and heavier. They used the Dale-Chal reading formula to ensure the material was clear, informative, and interesting. Professor Jeanne Chall of Harvard collaborated on the publishing encyclopedia. [13] 2000 Scholastic Corporation acquired Grolier and now has full rights to the content of the new short story book. 2007 The permit was published in 21 volumes and contains more than 9,000 articles.
