Jeopardy is a quiz show that people love to watch with family and friends, but we all want to play ourselves. So, we made a game template that looks like Jeopardy! with real sounds, pictures, and animations. It's free to download and can be edited by you. Our Jeopardy PowerPoint template has real sounds, is completely editable, and includes realistic animations for the perfect experience. If you need help or tips on how to use it, just read the chapters that follow. You can replace images, change fonts and colors, add sounds, and more pictures or game rounds to make it your own. Jeopardy is different from regular quiz shows because contestants have to answer in questions and get hints to figure out the answers. In our template, there's only one round, but you can create more by copying the presentation. Our Jeopardy rules are simple: the first player chooses a category and money value, then they have 30 seconds to think about their answer. If they're right, they get the money, and if not, others can try. The game ends when all fields are gone, and you find out who has the most money. You can play with as many people as you like and adjust the rules to fit your needs. It's fun and easy to use, so give it a try! ========== ========== To create a custom Jeopardy game, start with your contestants and begin playing. An extra tip: consider adding a Jeopardy-style game with real-life challenges, such as doing 10 push-ups or calling your crush. For an animated party game, include slides that require more energy, like "shot rounds" (water shots). If it's your parents' wedding anniversary, use personal questions to keep them engaged. Edit the text of any slide by clicking on it and deleting the old content. Add new sentences using the tools in the menu under "Home." To format the font, color, or size, use the options available in the "Home" menu. You can also apply a selected style to other text by using the format painter. Transitions can enhance your presentation, making it special and exciting. However, be cautious not to overdo it and distract from the main topic. Use transitions wisely, especially for a game like Jeopardy! that's meant for fun. Explore the transition options in the menu bar and click on the little arrow to access more choices. To incorporate audio into your presentation, go to the "Sound" menu and choose a default sound or select an "Other Sound" option at the end of the list. Keep in mind that this requires WAV-format sounds; if you have an MP3 file, convert it using a website like Online Audio Converter or use the second option to insert an audio file. Add custom images to make your game more personal and special. Most pictures can be easily replaced by clicking on them, deleting them, and adding new ones. Resize graphics by clicking on any corner and moving the cursor. PowerPoint elements have highlighted menus in the menubar when clicked. Explore these options to adjust objects further. Some slides include shapes like rectangles, which can be edited using the Shape Format menu. If you want to change hidden pictures behind other images, move objects around and bring them to the front or back by right-clicking on them. For added realism, incorporate exciting sounds into your presentation. Use the transition menu to add audio or go to the "Sound" menu for more options. jeopardy game template for PowerPoint allows presenters to resize the table, edit the grids, and recolor the game board from its default color, shape, and image layout. Our Jeopardy! PowerPoint template and give it a try! If you’re new to Jeopardy! or need guidance on customizing the presentation, check out the following sections. Feel free to replace images, adjust fonts and colors, add sounds or symbols, and even expand the game with more rounds. There’s no limit to your creativity! Explore the rules of the game and how to tailor the template to your preferences. Jeopardy! differs from standard quizzes because players answer in the form of questions, using hints to find the correct answer. While it might seem confusing at first, it becomes intuitive once you get the hang of it. The real game features three rounds with three contestants competing, but our template includes just one round for beginners. You can easily add more rounds by duplicating the slides. When the money board appears, the first player selects a category and value by clicking the field. Higher amounts mean harder questions! Typically, a random generator picks a player to start, but you can agree to let the youngest player begin. After the question is shown, all players have 30 seconds to think (until the music stops). A player can answer by raising their hand, shouting, or clicking a buzzer. If correct, they earn the money and choose the next question. If wrong, others can attempt it. If no one answers, the moderator randomly selects the next player. The winner is the one with the highest score. For an advanced twist, wrong answers deduct points, allowing negative balances. A moderator is recommended to manage the game, keep the mood light, and verify answers. For detailed rules, refer to the Jeopardy! Wikipedia page. To play, click the Jeopardy! slide and start the presentation. The intro music plays, then click again to begin. When the money board appears, click a field to proceed. The thinking music runs for 30 seconds. Click “click here for the answer” when the music ends or someone answers correctly. Return to the board, and the field disappears. We’ve omitted a point counter for flexibility, so track scores manually. Continue until all fields are gone, then reveal the winner! Customize your game by replacing questions with personal topics, like family trivia or physical challenges. Add slides for themed rounds, such as “water shots” or wedding anniversary questions. Edit text by selecting slides, deleting old content, and formatting with tools in the “Home” menu. Use the format painter to apply styles to other sections. Let your imagination run wild! ========== Lets get start with this game show thingy when you pick the right slide all the others can change New transitions can make presentation more fun but can also make it not important to know. But game like Jeopardy its just for fun so lets have fun with transition, select any of the slide in menu bar, go to Transition, try out the different one, click on arrow to see even more You can add music too by going to Sound menu and pick a default or use your own audio by picking Other Sound at end of list Keep in mind you need to use WAV format for sound file if you have MP3 file you can convert it with free website or use second option explained below Creative images are good when game is special occation like birthday party or anniversary, add new picture will make it personal and speciel Most pictures can be change by clicking on them delete them and adding new one, size can also get changed click on corner of graphic and move cursor When you click on PowerPoint element menu in menubar will highlighted orange, open it to see more option to adjust object Some of slide have shape like rectangle, colour effect and so on can be change with Shape Format menu Pictures that hidden behind other image can be change by moving object around and bringing them to front or back by right- clicking and choosing bring to front or bring to back Here is example how game look like for wedding anniversary Exciting sound is very important part of game, we add many audio clip to template to make it realist but you can use your own sound too If there no audio symbol on slide you can find and change music or sound file this way But if you see loudspeaker symbol in corner of slide that mean you can also add sound by going to Insert menu, Audio, Choose Audio on my PC... New music element will come up with two new menu Audio Format and Playback You can hide symbols when presentation on, add fade in-out, loop or play across slide and many more We have voice-over that read out loud category, if you change topic still want voice use website like Text-to-MP3 to convert text into MP3 file Choose your voice and press Download as MP3 button Now you can import it to presentation like other audio clip We hope you have fun with game show by using SlideLizards template!Looking for ways to make your Jeopardy template more interesting while keeping it easy to follow?
